the trial of Burke and Doran, at Dublin, was so dramatic as to suggest a comparison between it and the similar scene which took place when sentence was passed upon Smith O'Brien and Meagher. The counsel who defended the conspiritors of 1848, sat in judgment on their successors of 1867, and the voice which ploaded for mercy on the former on, now pronounced sentence of death. The Washington correspondent of the New York

A Revenue outter will be placed at their dissosal by the Treasury Department. Delegations from the Washington Commanderies started for Baltimore to-night to complete arrangements with the Templars of that city for the trip.

The spirit of lawlessness and violence stirred up in the South among the negro population is directly ascribed by the Albany Evening Journal to the "new Radical crusade," and the editor protests against the Republican party being held reble either for the extreme men who profess 20 act as representatives or for the doctrines they promulgate, which are considered subversive of all sound ideas of government, incendiary in their effects, and calculated to delay the process of recon-UNDERSWOOD is at this time the recipient of heavy blows from every quarter. The Radicals are manling him for the release of Mr. Davis, and the roar of indignation at his charge still continues. If a correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer is to be believed, until a late hour on the day preceding the discharge of Mr. DAVIS, UNDERWOOD Was remorselessly bent upon incarcerating that gentleman in "the Libby," but philosopher GREELEY took him in hand at a late hour of the Sabbath, wrestled with him for many hours, and converted the hea-then. So says the Richmond Times.

The Roman Catholics of Cincinnati have 'us laid the corner stone of the new St. Xavier College, which, when completed, as it will be in December next, will be a very splendid building. RADICAL AGITATION.

The order which we published yesterday from General SWAYNE, putting Mebile under martial law-for that is its practical effect-is of special interest to the South in view of the prospect which the following appeal from the National Union Committee opens before us: The National Union Committee appeals to the Republicans of every State for their assistance and co-operation in this auspicious crisis of our Republicans of every State for their assistance and co-operation in this auspicious crisis of our country.

We deem it of the highest importance that the Republicans of each State should immediately recorganize for the remaining election of 1867, preparatory to the coming Presidential contest. Especially should this organization be immediately effected in those States which have never before recognized as the only just basis of government the equal and inalienable rights of man. Not a day should be lost in forming and strengthening within those States a public sentiment in consonance with the principles which underlie the great political organization to which we belong.

To this end, we desire to prosecute a systematic and thorough canves of the Southern States, by the most efficient speakers of both races. We would second their efforts by a distribution of documents, enforcing the principles, policy and aims of the Republican party. We would call, in every locality where it is possible, meetings for discussion, where those who are with us in principle may learn to act with unity and energy. These measures are required to bring out the vote of that large body of Republican Unionists who now render the Southern States a battle-field of principle. It is the pressing need of the hour that bold, judicious and able men, thoroughly imbued with our creed, should there explain our principles, establish our faithfulness to them, and prove that national greatness and human freedom depend upon the permanent triumph of our cause.

If this appeal is responded to, we may ex-

If this appeal is responded to, we may expect to have the country covered with itinerant orators, exercising the right which the Evening Post claims for Judge KELLY, "to use the biterest language he can command." The labor of the country is to be interrupted, the passions of the country to be excited, and when the inevitable result comes as it did in the riot at Mobile, Gen. SWAYNE's order furnishes the emedy. A military officer will "assume the maintenance of public order," the administration of the local authorities will be suspended; public meeting after night will be forbidden, and "a severe responsibility will be attached to the exercise of free thought and free speech." Whether Judge Kelly's visit to Mobile and its consequences, have produced such a state of feeling as to render this interference of the military authority necessary, whether a disturbance originating in an accident, has been exaggerated by the condition of the public temper, or whether the Radical policy requires

Upon the special case we do not feel called upon to express an opinion, certainly not until all the facts are before us. But whatever may be its character, it is perfectly plain that nothing but evil can come from this proposed agita-

tive to a renewed popular agitation, we do not

The educated and intelligent portion of the colored voters of the South have now ample means of political information. In all the owns and villages they have organizations to form and direct public opinion among themselves, and there has not been anywhere the slightest attempt to interfere with their public meetings or to silence their orators. There is the freest field for the exercise of whatever legitimate influence they possess. But an organized effort to gather the great mass of the labor of the South in political meetings to be harangued by hired speakers who, as a general rule, have neither discretion nor temper, but who, as a general rule, do have that ready and reckless cleverness which is the characteristic of American stump oratory, can only produce mischief. The character of the audience will control the character of the topics upon which they are to be addressed, and to govern the great mass of the voters they must be governed through their feelings. Even in so sacred a subject as religion, those who teach them have to adapt their teaching to their emotional natures, and we all know what the wild excitement of a negro camp-meeting is. Not one of the signers of this appeal but must know that to such audiences it would be impossible to explain the political questions before us. The only appeal must be, as it has been wherever the experiment is tried, to the black man's gratitude for his freedom due to the Republican party. Then of course comes the contrast with slavery and the denunciation of those who formerly supported "this cursed institution." These topics are so obvious, their mischievous treatment so easy and so successful, that the temptation is irresistible to the great majority of the second-rate orators who will be hired

In his speech at Richmond, Mr. GREELEY, whose name is signed to this appeal, called upon those who heard him to forget that they were black or white-that they had been masters or slaves-to remember only that they were citizens of Virginia, bound to her fortune and identified with her interests.

Now, does Mr. Greeney think honestly that this crusade of passionate partizan speakers whom he is about to scatter over the whole South, will help forward his mission of peace? Of course it is out of our power to prevent this agitation if it is forced on us, but when Judge Kelley proclaims that he speaks with the 15th regiment at his back, with the army of the United States to support him, and when the Tribune says:

And now, Messrs. Military Commandants at the South! a word with you! Military rule is open to grave objection; but it has one good quality—it makes short work with rioters and mobs. Will you comprehend that you are in power expressly to preclude such doings as those at Mobile and Gal-veston, and secure to every one the right to mee and speak freely? We don't ask you to silence our and speak freely? We don't ask you to silence our adversaries—we insist that you shall guarantee them the utmost liberty of speech and action—and we demand the same, and no more, for our own side. If any of you don't know how to stop such doings as those at Mobile and Galveston, he should promptly resign and let some one take hold who has more capacity or more pluck. The people are paying heavily for the maintenance of order, and they have a right to the article they bargain for. If you can't supply it, please oblige them by getting out of the way!

It seems to us that the Military Commanders may safely act on an old and sure proverb. That an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and before they allow themselves to be forced to armed interference, insist in the interest of peace and good order, that the provocation shall not be given which makes such interference necessary. It would be as easy, and just as effectual to suppress an incendiary orator, as an excited audience.

The New York Tribune, of Friday last, has the following supercilious announcement: "The Supreme Court of Louisiana has just held that no recovery can be had for notes given for the purchase of slaves-a doctrine unnecessary except in benighted cases." What a flood of light our New York brother must enjoy that is denied to us "benighted cases." Every judge and every lawyer in the South has been revolving this question since the abolition of slavery, and while many of them have arrived at the same conclusion here published as being the judgment of the Supreme Court of Louisiana, they would be slow to forejudge the question by so flippant an assumption. Madame H. A. PERRIGO.

CHE REVALS SECRETS NO MORTAL EVER KNEW.

She restores to happiness those who, from doleful events, catastrophes, crosses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. She brings together those long separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, souses speedy marriages, and tells you the very day you will marry, gives you the names, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers, unvails the dark and hidden mystories of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the malene stars that overcome or pr dominate in the configuration—from the aspects and positions of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest Astrologist on carth. It costs you but a triffe, and you may never again have so invorable an opportunity. Consultation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and salisfaction to themselves, as if in person.
